Dread the Family Gathering?

With the holidays approaching, there is always a cornucopia of conflict that lurks in and around the dining room table. "Place all communication barriers out and on the table," is the motto of relational experts, Poppy and Geoff Spencer.

With their years of communication research, the Myers-Briggs Certification, and Poppy's 7 years as a psychology professor, this couple has the answers to improved communication skills in families.

Added to their years of experience: an innovative trademarked tool and process, the Emotional Clock®, they successfully share with audiences around the country.
